Feelings for Someone Else

Someone grabs you on the way down the hall to SS and asks if they can talk to you. You sit down in an empty room and they say, "I just need to tell someone what's going on." They begin to tell you in detail everything that their spouse is doing that is wrong. They summarize by saying, "I've lost all respect for them and I have no feelings for them anymore. In fact, I have developed strong feelings for someone at work that's been working on a project together with me. We have not done anything wrong yet, but the feelings are so strong. I don't think God would want me to continue to live a lie with my spouse when there's no feelings left. Since there's no hope for our marriage I need your help to know how to break the news to my spouse."

You have 5 minutes to decide how you should proceed and you must have at least one verse to motivate / guide your decision

- Where should you start?
- How would you direct this person? What would you tell them is their biblical responsibility in this matter? What verses would you use?
- What about this issue of their feelings? What verses would you use?
- How would you give them hope? What verses?
